Get Those Santa Letters In The Mail Today

Santa Claus letters are beginning to flow into the Cameron Herald office, make certain your child's letter gets in before the deadline.

The first letter to come in was from little Delores Rollings, and Santa left a crisp new dollar bill in the Herald office for her when he picked up her letter. Delores, the next time you are in town stop by and pick up Santa's first present to you.

There are only 18 days left to get the Santa letters in, don't delay, help your little girl or boy write their letters and mail them to Santa direct, in care of the Cameron Herald.

Mrs. J. M. Brashear Dies In Bastrop

Mrs. J. M. Brashear died in Bastrop Friday morning. Funeral services were slated for 1 p. m. Sunday at the Hasler Funeral Home in Bastrop with graveside services set at 3 p. m. Sunday in the Salem Cemetery with Marek-Burns in charge of local arrangements.

She is survived by one son, Homer Brashear of La Marque; one daughter, Mrs. Odel Clade of Texas City; two brothers, Alf Lowden and Joe Lowden, both of Bastrop and four grand children.

FIFTY YEARS TOGETHER: Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Todd, of Cook's Point will observe their 50th anniversary Sunday, December 5 with an Open House, from one to seven p. m. at 506 Restwood Street, Bryan, Texas. Married at Rosebud, they have spent most of their life near Cameron. Their children to be hosts for the celebration are: Mrs. Robert C. Cloud, Sr., Mr. Clarence C. Todd, Sr., Mr. Robert D. Todd of Bryan, Mrs. Earl Bowman of Houston, Texas and Mrs. Garland Follis of Atlanta, Georgia. All relatives and friends are invited.

Steve F. Polzer Is Winner Of Conservation Program

A hard row of stumps to hoe pretty well sums up the work of Steve F. Polzer, who lives about four miles southwest of here.

Recently named winner of the $25 runner-up award in the selection of the outstanding conservation farmer of the Central Texas Soil Conservation District, life hasn't always been "milk and honey" for this Cen-Tex farmer.

More than 30 years ago, he rented 43 acres of rolling, wooded farmland near Cameron. That was in 1921.

He left the place in 1927, but returned in 1938 and bought the place. It hadn't improved.

But he was determined and saw possibilities in the farm. He'd seen those same possibilities there in 1922 when he erected some of the first terraces ever constructed in Milam county.

Soon after he got the farm, he began clearing the pasture land, which, at that time was nothing more than woods with a few cow trails punched through the underbrush.

Asked how he cleared the land, he replied:

"The hard way -- with a hand axe, a one-man saw and by fire." Looking at the 140 acres Steve Polzer now farms, it's hard to realize just what problems he faced during those first years.

In addition to the problem of a pasture where grass was crowded out by timber, he also had a farm that lay on slopes up to four and five percent.

Today the Polzer farm is under a fully coordinated conservation program.

More than 10 miles of terraces empty out onto waterways sodded to bermuda and King Ranch blue-stem, or onto pastures of native grasses, bermuda, KR bluestem, and buffalo. Three stock tanks provide ample water for his live stock, and his rotation program has increased yields to where they rank with the best in Milam county.

Last year, in spite of drought conditions, Mr. Polzer made 14 500-pound bales of cotton on 23 acres, averaged 40 bushels of corn to the acre, and made about 35 bushels of oats to the acre.

In addition, his 32-acre pasture carried 15 head of cattle.

Reluctant to talk about his accomplishments, the keynote to his success was supplied by Wayne Mann, Soil Conservation Service work unit conservationist in Cameron.

"When you tell Steve about a practice, you better make sure you give him all the details, because by the next time you see him, the job is done," Mr. Mann said.

He emphasized this point by explaining about the 80-foot-wide flume on the Polzer farm.

"Steve had an overflow of about five or six feet off one of his fields. See Polzer - Back Page

Total Valuation Of Milam County Increased To $28,438,651

Total valuation of Milam County this year increased to $28,438,651, according to Valter White, County Tax Assessor and Collector. Last year's total valuation was $23,350,066.

Mr. White reported that thus far 77 per cent of the total amount has been collected, although the percentage is not as high on the number of tax payers who have remitted.

He reminded all those 11,955 tax payers in the county who have not yet paid their 1954 taxes that they will be able to deduct one per cent if the taxes are paid before January 1. "Taxes can be paid by mail" Mr. White stated, "by just mailing a money order, or course it simplifies matters if the tax payer will include their mailed notice it simplifies matters if the tax payer will include their mailed notice with their money."

"Be sure to add $1.75 for State and County poll tax, if you wish to purchase one, because this year it is not included in the tax statement."

G. C. Black visited his children in Houston last week.

Strept Throat On Rise In County

Strept throat, one of the most prevalent diseases in Milam County for many previous weeks and finally down to no reported cases last week, is on the rise again with 12 cases reported by Dr. John B. Bryson of the County Health Unit for the week ending November 20.

The only other disease listed was two cases of gonorrhea.

Word has been received telling of the graduation of Albert G. Kotrola HA USN, from the U. S. Naval Hospital Corps school at San Diego, California. He is now serving on the staff at the Naval Hospital in that city.

Bethel Church Wins First In Christmas Parade

Santa Claus and the spirit of the Christmas season received a standing ovation from hoards of Cameronites Monday after the pre-season Christmas Parade, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Climaxing the parade, and followed by a throng of wide-eyed youngsters, was Santa at his booming heartiest, dressed in red and drawn in his sleigh by his well-known and much expected reindeer.

All of the schools in the city turned out for the event and every section of the parade area swarmed with children and their just as enthusiastic parents.

Winning first place in the parade for the best float was the Bethel A. M. E. Church which featured a small boy sitting on a red and green Christmas colored float with a miniature lion on one side and a lamb on the other in accordance with the float theme "The Lion and the Lamb shall lie down together and a child shall lead them."

The second place went to the Girl Scout Troop which had a nativity scene with the wise men and baby Jesus in the manger on their float.

Third prize was awarded to the Future Homemakers of America which carried out the theme "Follow the Star" with an open Bible and a silver star.

Only other float in the parade was by the Cameron Welcome Service which depicted two little girls looking dreamily into a fireplace which had Christmas stockings prominently displayed on the mantle and their mother reading "The Christmas Story" to another eager child at her feet.

In the Bicycle entries Linda McGuire, dressed as a Santa Claus won first prize, Diane McGuire won second and Donna Dubois was awarded third prize.

Floater were judged by Robert Greenwald Manager of the Rockdale Chamber of Commerce, Reverend W. Campbell of the Episcopal Church in Rockdale and Leonard Allen, Rockdale Attorney.

They were judged on: Overall beauty - 40 per cent; Originality - 30 per cent; Workmanship - 30 per cent and Theme - 10 per cent.

Eleven Seniors Play Their Last Grid Game With Cameron Yoemen

Eleven members of Cameron Yoemen 1954 squad, co-champs of District 22-AA, played their last game for Yoe High Friday night in Killeen. These eleven boys, who played a big part in the Yoe's victories this year, will be missed when the team begins next year's season. But they are leaving behind them most of Coach Leo Jackson's and Coach Dick Young's squad.

Jimmy Rettig, halfback, has completed three years on the squad, and Leon Beale, fullback, is also seeking his third letter.

Other seniors on the squad are Joe Lee Heitman, Joseph Michalka, Albert Mondrik, Henry Brown, John Duncan, George Absnaider, Fred Petmecky, Benny Massengale and John Johnson.

Coming back to form the nucleus of Coach's 1955 squad will be the following juniors, Burk Barr, Fred Fleischer, Clifford Angell, Tom Collins, Buddy Thompson, Laddie Dohalik, and Clyde Wallace.

Sophomores on the squad are Johnny Solomon, Paul Hoelscher, Steve Polzer, and Monroe Bayer while Clayton Canizales is a freshman.

John Duncan, George Absnaider, Fred Petmecky, Benny Massengale and John Johnson.

Community Chest Reaches $3,500 Mark This Week

Cameron's Community Chest drive, dear to the hearts of everyone interested in seeing that the scouts progress and the needy are cared for, is rapidly drawing to a close.

Thus far, according to chairman E. A. Perrin, almost $3,500 has been pledged within the two week period, leaving the city only $1,500 short of its $5,000 goal.

"All of the businessmen have been very generous," Perrin stated, "and I would also like to take this opportunity to thank all of those who have worked so hard to make the drive a success."

This year's drive was delayed for several months and workers were dubious whether it would be successful because of the lateness of the date.

There will be no drive in the residential section, Perrin advised, and anyone wishing to donate can make their contribution to Perrin or any of the Drive workers.

The drive funds will be put to many uses, both of the scout organizations, boy and girls, operate primarily off the funds derived through the Chest, the Welfare fund helps the needy within the city, some of the money will be deposited with school so that deprived children can have milk.

Many other important assets, too numerous to name, are derived from the Community Chest.

Killeen Takes Bi-District Tilt By Converting Yoe Fumbles Into TD's

The Killeen Kangaroos took advantage of the Cameron Yoemen's fumbling and rock and socked their way to a 27-7 bi-district championship at Killeen Friday night.

The big Kangaroos, who easily outweighed the Yoemen, jumped to a quick 14-0 lead after converting two Yoemen fumbles into touchdowns. The Killeen eleven made another six points through the air and were out front during the early part of the second quarter -- 20-0 before the Yoemen could catch their breath.

The Yoemen failed to move on the ground against the big Killeen line, so the team moved to a spread and passed their way over the opposition. The Yoemen's only score came late during the second quarter, setting it up after a Killeen fumble on the 'Roo 21 yard line. Fred Petmecky fell on the ball for the fighting Yoemen, and although the team "flew" most of the night, they elected to slowly grind out the touchdown yardage. The Yoemen used up seven plays for the score, with Joe Lee Heitman going through center for the touchdown. George Absnaider, as usual, added the extra point.

All School Carnival To Be December 7

Final plans for the coronation of the school queens are being made at Yoe High school. Ada Henderson elementary and Ben Milam this week. The All School Carnival and coronation will be held Tuesday night, December 7, at 7 p. m. in the gymnasium.

Queens and princesses will be choosing their escorts this week, with the Kings and Princes to be announced at a later date.

The carnival, sponsored by the school, will start at 7, with entertainment booths, food, drinks and games in the auditorium.

Coronation of the queens, with the all school queen announced at the ceremony, will begin at 9 p. m. Proceeds will go to the school milk funds and into the activity fund, which sponsors the interschool League in the spring.

Special Train To Killeen Big Success

Jaycee president Jimmy Wiggs proclaimed the special train to Killeen for Cameron football fans Friday night a "trip-roaring" whistle blowing success.

Approximately 415 Cameronites boarded the train at 6 p. m., including 51 children and band students, arriving in Killeen at about 7:15 p. m.

Wiggs said that everyone seemed to enjoy the trip both ways, with the Jaycees serving cold drinks, peanuts and what-not from a concession stand set upon the baggage car.

Upon arriving at the Killeen station the Cameron fans were met by busses which transported them to the stadium and back to the train after the game.

Training Union Revival At First Baptist Church

A Training Union Revival will be held at First Baptist Church, Nov. 29 - Dec. 2.

Mr. Lee C. Perry of Dallas will direct the Study Course and Revival. His assistants will be Miss Mary D. Taylor of Dallas, Mrs. H. R. Tucker of Athens, Mrs. E. J. Burkes and Mrs. Ben Edmonds.

During the day these workers will meet with the local departmental workers for special conferences. The time will be 7:00 p. m. each evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gunter were visitors in Cassie Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Koner of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. James Pain of Hearne, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pain of Hearne and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Pain visited Mr. and Mrs. Brady Little on Thanksgiving.

The Yoemen had two scoring opportunities blanked out as they fumbled deep in Killeen territory. The hard charging Kangaroos dropped on the ball and took over on their own 10 and 16 yard lines to stop the Yoemen touchdown drives.

The Killeen team was held once by the little Yoemen on the ten yard line and 19 yard line with the Yoes taking over on downs.

The final Killeen touchdown came with only 30 seconds left in the ball game as they rolled up 21 yards to score.

When contacted Saturday morning Coach Leo Jackson of the Yoemen stated, "I still say they (the Yoemen) have gone further than any team I've coached in 18 years and I'm still proud of them."

He continued, "Killeen played an awfully well ball game, but our boys played well too. Not to take anything from Killeen, but I believe our dropping the ball so many times cost us the ballgame."

Just like all of Cameron fans who support their home team, whether they win or lose, the veteran coach looked with faith to the future and next year when he stated, "But we're making strong bids on next year's team, we have a lot of lettermen returning."

The game opened with the Yoemen taking the kickoff, but they failed to gain and Leon Beale punted out for the Yoemen. The Killeen team took over and they also failed to move and punted back to the Yoemen who, after losing 18 yards on the next play, fumbled on their own 38 yard line with Killeen recovering. From this point the Kangaroos broke the Yoes back as the 'Roo handyman, Al Kirchoff, set up the score on an 8 yard drive. Jack Reding and Kirchoff manned the chores with Reding plowing over from the two yard line and later kicking the extra point. The score: Killeen 7, Cameron 0.

The Yoemen took the kickoff after the touchdown and Jimmy Rettig returned it to the Cameron 25 yard line where on the first play from scrimmage the Yoes were again hit hard and the ball blew lose for a mad scramble.

Killeen recovered on the Yoe 25 yard marker, and it was Reding who romped 25 yards to the 1 yard marker and carried over on the next play for his 13th point of the night. The 'Roo made the two touchdowns about a minute apart. Reding again kicked the point after touchdown and Killeen lead Cameron, 14-0.

After the kickoff Killeen again recovered a Yoe fumble, but an off sides penalty against Killeen nullified the play and Killeen kicked again.

The Yoemen failed to move and Killeen took over moments later on downs.

After exchanging the ball twice as the second quarter began, Killeen added their third touchdown of the night with a pass from Don Armstrong to Paul Peebles, which was good for 59 yards. Peebles snapped the pass on the Cameron 30 yard line, shook off the Yoe defender, and romped the remaining distance for pay-dirt. Reding's kick was no good. The score, Killeen, 20, Cameron 0.

The Yoemen took the ball, moved up field, but Killeen settled down, held, and Beale punted out. The 'Roo fumbled their way out this one, and Fred Petmecky, Yoe end, fell on the pigskin on the 'Roo 21 yard line.

Joseph Michalka's first pass to Rettig fell to the wayside, but on the second play from scrimmage, he hit Heitman for nine yards and set up the scoring drive. Rettig and Heitman from that pint, ran the remaining distance with Heitman going through center to score. Absnaider's kick was good, and the score -- Killeen, 20, Cameron 7.

The two squads exchanged the ball twice before the half ended. Another Killeen fumble on the Kangaroo 29 yard line, and recovered by Benny Massengale for the Yoes, was almost converted into a touchdown, but after driving down to the Killeen 10 yard line, the Yoemen fumbled with Killeen recovering.

Randle Lake Choice Texas Plantation

In late December and January, Randle Lake plantation near Cameron will market in the neighborhood of 650 steers. Under two years old, the steers will average around 950 pounds. Half will grade choice; the other half good.

Right now these steers are in feedlot, putting on their last 150 pounds, eating a ground ration of maize, oats, cotton-seed meal and all the johnson grass they can take.

When they leave for market, after staying about 15 months on the plantation, it's doubtful that a single dollar in cash will have been spent on commercial feed to fatten them.

Sound unlikely? Indeed it does, here in a state where generations of cattlemen have produced millions of grass - and - mother - fed calves and left the feeding up to somebody else "because Texas is a grass state." But this is not another story setting forth the old argument that Texas should feed its own beef. It is, instead, the story of how one Texas farm is producing good and choice grain-fed beef, not by following the Corn Belt pattern but by taking advantage of the very fact that Texas is a grass state, and that economical grass gains coupled with feeding of home-grown grain can add up to profitable beef production. This, then, is cattle feeding, Texas style.

Sterling C. Evans and Gus S. Wortham of Houston began this story when, 11 years ago, they bought the old plantation in the Little River bottom southwest of Cameron. And they added an important chapter to the tale when they picked a shrewd, energetic man named Ozell Angell to manage it. Angell has a free rein in operating the place; the only check that holds him back is his own consuming determination to operate it in a practical manner.

It is significant that Angell, when explaining his beef production set-up, begins with the land instead of the cattle. Most of the farm, which now consists of about 4300 acres, lies in the river bottom, low, rolling and now nearly all cleared.

This bottom is cut into four tracts, ranging in size up to 700 acres. A two-year rotation has been established for these tracts. In one tract oats are seeded each fall. In another goes hubam clover. In the third is alfalfa. The fourth tract is for row crops, where tenants farm cotton on the halves and the farm produces a big maize crop. Outside these tracts, on the hills and in the uncultivated part of the bottom, are improved permanent pastures.

In early fall, Angell puts commission buyers on the lookout for the kind of steer calf he wants. This October he bought close to 700 calves averaging right at 350 pounds. He wants good stuff, and uniform stuff, and he gets it by paying tops. These calves, now grazing on the place, will be around for a year before they get their first bite of concentrate feed. They'll winter on the oats, hubam, and alfalfa; they'll be rotated around to keep them in the best grazing available.

As spring approaches, the growing calves are turned out of the oats tract and the grain heads out. Then comes the combine, and the oats go into a long metal grain storage building. Still the hubam and alfalfa furnish grazing, but there is always the permanent pasture -- rested all the winter and early spring -- to turn in on during summer. As the planted grazing crops begin to fade in the hot months, johnson grass has usually volunteered on the fields, giving

News About Your Social Security

Over 2 million additional farm and ranch workers are brought under social security beginning January 1, 1955.

Hired Farm and Ranch Workers

A person employed on a farm or ranch, or who works in any other kind of agricultural enterprise (except the production of gum naval stores) after 1954 will get social security credit for his work for each year or ranch operator who pays him $100.00 or more cash wages in a year. Under the old law, only regular, full-time farm work could be counted.

The Austin social security office has a new pamphlet explaining this added feature of the 1954 Amendments to the social security law. Just write the Austin District Office, Social Security Administration, Austin, Texas, and ask for your free copy of pamphlet "Farm Families."

Postmaster Hays Says "Mail Early For Christmas"

Postmaster John Hays today announced a three-point program designed to insure delivery of all Christmas cards and gift packages by December 25.

"I've found," he explained, "it's not enough to slap up posters all over town saying, 'Shop Early, Mail Early.' That's the main idea of course, but I'd like to be more specific."

Specifically, then, the Postmaster first urged business firms to mail their regular correspondence by 5:00 p. m. throughout the Christmas season. They can help even more, he added, by withholding all circular and catalogue mail until after the critical period, Dec. 15-25.

"This will leave elbow room at the Post Office to process the tremendous volume of holiday mail we'll be handling. I'm quite sure it will exceed the all-time record of 2,346,110 cancellations set here in 1953," the Postmaster warned.

Point 2, consequently, requires the public's cooperation. Begin by checking your Christmas card list this week. Each address should include the full name, street and number, city, zone and state.

After this, visit the Post Office to order the stamps you'll need. Lay in a supply of heavy wrapping paper and strong cord as well. Then there will still be a week left for leisurely Christmas shopping -- one New Year's resolution you can keep!

Finally, the Post Office itself has moved into high gear. Temporary postal employees have been sworn in, delivery trucks over-hauled and yes, all inkwells filled. So just do your part, and remember all gift packages should be mailed by December 5, all Christmas cards by at least a week before Christmas.

Margaret Angell, Baylor University student is spending the Thanks giving holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Angell.

Hunters Warned Not To Shoot "Spike Bucks"

The Director of Wildlife Restoration for the Game and Fish Commission relayed a field report warning deer hunters against mistakenly shooting spike bucks, which are illegal.

Bob Ramsey, Wildlife Biologist, found in surveying herds for the antlerless deer season in overpopulated areas of Gillespie, Mason and Llano counties that spike bucks comprised 41.2 per cent of all bucks counted.

"Deer hunters should stand cautioned that on the opening day almost every other buck seen will be an illegal spike," wrote Ramsey to his Austin headquarters. "As the season progresses, the percentage of spikes will skyrocket because of the shooting of the adult bucks, and that will call for increased vigilance on the part of the hunter."

A legal buck deer is officially described as one with a pronged or forked horn.

Ramsey said biologists working in the area believe there are several reasons for the high percentage of spike bucks in the woods this fall. He wrote: "Last year's fawn crop was exceptionally large, with a high rate of survival. Also the kill of legal bucks during the 1953 season was unusually high, cutting down the carry over of bucks this year. Another factor contributing to the large number of spikes is the drought which has prevailed over most of the Hill Country for the past year or years, as is the case over much of deer range. Bucks adorned with eight and ten-inch spikes would normally have from three to eight points when the proper foods are available. Poor food conditions produce poor antler growth, just as an abundance of high quality deer food will produce larger antlers with more points."

"CAMERON'S LEADING NEWSPAPER SINCE 1860"

limits and at intervals throughout the area where radar will be used. "Observe these new 'Signs of Life' as they are for your protection against accidents which are taking such a tragic toll of life, limb and property."

"These radar units," says Browning, "were put into use November 15, and it is our desire that they will bring about a public awareness to the problem and voluntary compliances with the speed law rather than resulting in an increase in the number of arrests."

Linky Mondrik Pledges Fraternity

When Buck began the bidding he said, "Anybody can bid. Just remember 'Sis' and three nice kids live here. Now who's going to start the bidding?"

"There was silence," "Sis," standing in back, got the point. She reached into her purse for just about all the money she had in the world. "I'll bid $75," she said.

SCS Men Conduct Tour To Observe Important Pasture Grasses In Area

Soil Conservation Service technicians from the Cameron office conducted a tour November 19 to observe the important pasture grasses of this community. Six members of the Veterans Agriculture Class and several other farmers attended the tour.

The first stop on the tour was on the Dusek Brothers' farm, in the Ad Hall Community. Charles Mayer, manager of the farm, lead the group through field of King Ranch Bluestem and Buffel-grass. Comparisons were made of the two grasses growing under similar conditions. Mr. Mayer explained how each grass was managed ed and how they were used in the over-all farming operations.

Next the group was shown a field of native grasses. The major grasses in this field were Side-oats grama, little bluestem, and silver bluestem. The group compared the amount and quality of grass in the Side Oats-grama and little bluestem to that in the silver bluestem. Most of them agreed that nature could not put better grass on the land than the little bluestem and side-oats-grama.

In another field on the Dusek farm, the group saw a good example of plant succession. The field had once been cultivated, but has not been plowed in several years. It now has a good cover of silver bluestem and shows evidence of increase of little bluestem and side oats grama. Mr. Mayer said that under proper management, the better grasses will soon replace the silver bluestem.

The group visited the Joe Zalesky farm to see trial plantings of Buffel grass, King Ranch Bluestem and Angleton Bluestem. On land that formerly grew needle grass, Mr. Zalesky has good stands of the introduced grasses.

Two Cameron Soldiers Take Basic Training

Two soldiers of the Cameron area recently began eight weeks of Army basic training in the Antiaircraft Artillery Replacement Training Center at Fort Bliss, Tex. They are Pvt. Walter O. Klem, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Klem of Route 1, Burlington, and Pvt. James Walter Burnett, 23, husband of Mrs. Evelyn Klappa Burnett of Route 1, Cameron.

All will spend their eight weeks training on fundamental infantry subjects such as rifle, machine gun, and bazooka marksmanship, and familiarization with Army technical subjects.

Upon completion of this cycle, they will be eligible for advanced basic training in antiaircraft artillery or some other branch of the Army.

Fort Bliss, established as a frontier outpost more than a century ago, is located in West Texas on the Mexican border, adjacent to El Paso.

Milk Bowl To Be Held December 11 In Kerrville

The nationally recognized pee-wee football event The Milk Bowl, which was originally started in Gause with the first game played in Cameron about five years ago, is gaining ground yearly. This year The Eddie Rickenbacker Ranch, near Kerrville, Texas, will be host to aviation, sports, civic and governmental celebrities from Chicago, New York, Washington, and Los Angeles, during the second week in December, as a phase of the pre-game festivities for The National Milk Bowl, annual football classic for small-fry elevens, described by Red Grange as "the world series of pee-wee football".

In the first Milk Bowl small fry from Gause met the tiny San Saba eleven on the Cameron gridiron.

On December 11, at Kerrville, a team of small-fry youngsters from somewhere in the world—Canada, Mexico, West Germany, or The United States—will get an old fashioned ranch welcome and the opportunity to play the best squad in Texas.

The game this year finds the Denver, Colorado Catholic League champions vs. Houston, Texas Y-MCA winners.

The Milk Bowl now has radio (560 stations and outlets overseas), TV film, movie, press, magazine, and syndicate coverage rivaling that of major college bowls.

The event is endorsed by the Texas legislature: HSR 195-51. On the board of directors are great Texans: Allan Shivers, Price Daniel, Jesse H. Jones, H. R. Cullen, Glenn H. McCarthy, and a dozen others. Persons commending the Bowl include: Frank Leahy, Herbert Hoover, Amos Alonzo Stagg, Red Grange, and the late Jim Jim Thorpe.

Revenue from The Milk Bowl goes to a camp for crippled children, at Kerrville, maintained by the 740 Lions Clubs of Texas. More than 480 children received free vacations and medical help, this year.

Aviation will be the theme of this year's extra-game activities: pregame parties, parade, half-time ceremonies, and other events. There will be an all-Texas fly-in of private flyers.

Farmers May Find More Foreign Markets In 1955

Farmers may find more customers in foreign countries in 1955. Farm exports are expected to increase next year, perhaps up to 10 percent, says John G. McHaney, extension agricultural economist.

Here is the basis for the economist's prediction:

Foreign cotton supplies are smaller than a year ago making larger shipments from the U. S. likely. Wheat and sorghum grain exports are expected to rise from relatively low levels of last year. Reduced foreign production is responsible.

A stronger demand abroad for fruits and fruit products coupled with larger U. S. supplies also point to stepped-up exports. Oils, fats and oilseed shipments will continue large also.

The Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954 will stimulate further agricultural shipments. Under the act foreign nations may purchase surplus commodities from the U. S.

The demand for our products has strengthened even in recent months reports McHaney. In the 1953-54 marketing year exports topped $2,900,000,000, compared with $2,800,000,000 for the previous year. This was roughly 3 percent under the peak established in 1951-52.

"Healthier foreign markets are not a cure for this country's surplus problem but will give strength to our total marketing positions," McHaney concludes.

Cameron Families Attend A & M Pep Rally Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Dodson were on the A & M Campus Tuesday night for the bon fire and pep rally, an annual event before the A & M and Texas University Thanksgiving game.

Their son, Glen, is a freshman at A & M.

Several other Cameron families were in attendance, including Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Moore and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fuchs, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schiller.

Get on the train to Killeen to night, help cheer the Yoemen on to victory.

Alcoa Renews Contract For TV Program "See It Now" Over CBS

Aluminum Company of America has renewed its contract to sponsor its television program, "See It Now," over the CBS television network.

The Company has sponsored the program which features Edward R. Murrow as editor and reporter, ever since its inception nearly three years ago, in December, 1951. The present contract expires after the program of Tuesday, November 23.

Alcoa sponsors "See It Now" in an effort to present the Company and its products to the American people. It is also Alcoa's desire to perform a public service by sponsoring a program that presents interesting and informative subjects. The Company feels that its sponsorship of the program during the past three years has benefited the Company, its stockholders and the general public.

At no time during the course of the program has Alcoa had any control over the subject matter to be presented on the program, nor the treatment of that material. Neither do any of the subjects by him necessarily reflect Alcoa's opinions. Alcoa's only participation in the preparation of any "See It Now" program has been to produce the commercial message aimed at "See It Now's" audience. The Company does not believe it would be fair to the audience or to itself if it were to attempt to dictate what material should or should not be used on any given program.

Alcoa's objective is to make and sell aluminum and aluminum products, and it is the Company's belief that sponsorship of "See It Now" will enable it to accomplish this and, at the same time, inform the public about important affairs of the day.

The supply of cotton in the United States for the 1954-55 marketing year is estimated at 23.0 million bales, including a beginning carryover on August 1, 1954 of 9.6 million, estimated imports of 0.2 million, and production (November 1, 1954 estimate) of 13.2 million bales. Last year, 1953-54, the total supply was less at 22.1 million bales. The average for the five marketing years beginning with 1949-50 was less at 19.2 million bales.

The small decrease in the carryover on August 1, 1955, is being estimated because of a slightly larger disappearance in prospect in 1954-55 marketing year. Total disappearance is estimated to be about 13.7 million bales compared to 12.4 million last year.

In 1954-55 domestic mills will consume about 9.2 million bales compared to 8.6 million last year. Exports in the 1954-55 marketing year will amount to about 4.5 million bales compared to 3.8 million last year, an expected 700,000 bale increase.

Domestic mill consumption in 1954-55 is expected to increase a little over 1953-54 because of some of the 54-55 marketing year. Total disappearance is estimated to be about 13.7 million bales compared to 12.4 million last year.

Exports in the 1954-55 marketing year will amount to about 4.5 million bales compared to 3.8 million last year, an expected 700,000 bale increase.

Exports of cotton in the 1954-55 marketing year are expected to be larger than in 1953-54 because of the season and a relatively high level of foreign cotton consumption. Foreign free world supplies in 1954-55 will probably not be adequate to meet requirements without larger imports from the United States.

Foreign holdings of gold and dollar assets have continued to rise over the past year.

Grants, loans, and other programs of the U. S. Government to finance the export of cotton in 1954-55 amounted to 153 million dollars as of October 20, 1954. These funds alone will finance the export of approximately 0.8 million bales, but additional authorizations may be made later. Loans and grants used last year amounted to 337 million and financed the export of about 1955 marketing quotas of 10 million bales for upland cotton and 30 and financed the export of about 1.8 million bales.

On October 14, 1954, the Secretary of Agriculture announced the 1955 marketing quotas of 10 million bales for upland cotton and 20 thousand bales for extra long staple cotton. The national acreage allotments for 1955 are 18.1 million acres for upland cotton. This compares with 20 million acres in cultivation on July 1, 1954, for upland cotton and the 1954 acreage allotment of 21.4 million.

On September 15, the Secretary announced an initial set-aside of 1 million bales of upland cotton. The set-aside will be increased to at least 3 million bales at a later date. The Secretary also said that 3 million bales would be excluded from the computation of carryover when computing the price support level for the 1955 crop of upland cotton.

In 1955, the support level for upland cotton will range from 82.5 percent to 90 percent of parity depending upon the relation of actual supply to normal supply. After 1955 the flexible price support scale will range from 75 to 90 percent of the parity price.

The Agricultural Act of 1954 specifies a "set-aside" for upland cotton of 3 to 4 million bales. The Secretary of Agriculture shall determine the amount of cotton which will be placed in the set-aside. The quantity placed in the set-aside will be included in the supply when computing marketing quotas, but excluded from the supply when computing the level of price supports.

Cotton Outlook Basically Same

The carryover of cotton in the United States on August 1, 1955, about the time that Texas farmers will be harvesting their 1955 cotton crop, will be about 9.2 million bales compared to 9.6 million bales on August 1, 1954. NOT MUCH CHANGE.

Milam County Cotton Allotment Cut To 53,857 Acres In 1955

Milam County had its cotton allotment for 1955 cut to 53,857 acres, "19 per cent less cotton allotted than in '54" according to officials at the A. S. C. Office.

Last year, including the extra acreage allowed by congress, Milam had 66,419 acres allotted and 64,067 planted officials stated.

The allotment for each individual farmer, which is automatic based on past history, will be mailed in the near future and then farmers will be asked to vote on the referendum, ascertaining whether or not the County, as a whole, wants the allotment.

It was pointed out that control of cotton is almost necessary if the prices are to be held to present levels.

If the allotment is voted down farmers can expect only 50 per cent parity, whereas they will receive from 82 to 90 per cent parity if the allotment carries as in past years.

Authorities have stated that several foreign markets have been cited and, if the negotiations are assured, then the market will probably be relieved during the next year.

Mrs. Frankie Joe Ehler

Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Ehler To Live Here Following Wedding

Miss Mary Ann Rabroker, of Westphalia, became the bride of Mr. Frankie Joe Ehler, of Cameron, on November 9 at 8 a. m. in the Church of Visitation, Westphalia. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rabroker, of Westphalia, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ehler of Cameron.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Rabroker, of St. Ferdinand's Church, Blanco. The Solemn Nuptial High Mass was sung by Rev. George Rabroker, of St. Louis' Church, Winnie, as celebrant. Rev. Edward Rabroker was deacon and Rt. Rev. R. P. Schertz, pastor of Visitation Church, Westphalia, was sub-deacon. Revs. Rabroker are brothers of the bride, and Rt. Rev. Schertz is a cousin of the family. The altar was decorated with white gladioli and fern, with standards of yellow mums marking the entrance to the sanctuary. The church organist rendered the music for the wedding march and the Mass. The choir sang the responses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gown in an original creation of sapphire white satin overlaid with Chantilly lace with insertions of nylon tulle ruffles which cascaded into a cathedral length train. The fitted bodice had a shadow yoke of tulle with applied lace medallions and an Elizabethan collar accentuated with an heirloom pin. The petal point sleeves were fastened with tiny satin buttons, as was the bodice back. Her veil of tulle, outlined with dainty handmade lace, with sprigs of the lace dotting it, was held in place with a cap of lace covered satin. White mums entwined with ivy and satin streamers was the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. James Doskocil was her sister's matron of honor. Her gown of teal blue antique taffeta had a moulded bodice and bouffant skirt. The scalloped neckline was outlined with rhinestones, and the sleeves were elbow length. Bridesmaids were Erma Weaver, of Westphalia, and Barbara Greger, of Norton, who wore gowns identical to the matron of honors's, but in duobonnet and moss green. Jo Carol Mazurek, of San Antonio, and Barbara Jean Urbanek, of Rowena were junior bridesmaids. Their gowns of coronation pink were made the same as the other attendants. All carried bouquets of mums with satin ribbons in complementary colors.

The groom's brother, Ernest Ehler of Rosebud, was best man; Ray Johnson, of Devine, and Dennis Rabroker, of Westphalia were groomsmen.

Mary Rabroker, of Dallas, was the miniature bride: her gown, veil and flowers made as the bride's, only in a soft blue shade. Her escort was Bobby Rabroker, of Dallas. They are neice and nephew of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the community hall. The reception table held the three tiered wedding cake flanked by pink tapers in silver holders and gladioli in white pottery. The service table held the sandwiches, cake, coffee and punch.

At 5 p. m. a supper was held for the guests in the Parish Dining Hall. The bride's table was laid with a crocheted cloth, made by her. A dance was held at night.

When the couple left on their trip to Mexico and Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico, the bride wore a grey suit, white velvet hat, and black accessories. On their return, they will make their home in Cameron, where he is employed.

The bride attended the Westphalia Schools and in her senior year attended Rosebud High School. The groom attended school in Cameron and served in the armed forces in Korea.

Home & Garden Club Plans Christmas Party December 21

Mrs. T. B. Stidham and Mrs. Carlton Crook were co-hostesses when the Home and Garden Club met Tuesday, Nov. 16 in the home of Mrs. Stidham in the Jones Prairie community.

Mrs. Merlin Lester was named the special honoree as the Lester's recently moved to Cameron.

The party rooms were decorated in autumn colors, carrying out the Thanksgiving theme. The dining rooms polished top table was centered with a horn O plenty surrounded with colorful autumn leaves.

Mrs. O. T. Canady and Mrs. Robert Glenn were in charge of the games. During the business session final plans were made for the Christmas party. President E. B. Yager named Miss Roxie Allday. Mrs. R. K. Fontaine and Miss Ethel McKinney on the refreshment committee.

The party will be held on December 21 at the home of Mrs. Sam Harrell.

The hostesses served a plate consisting of chicken salad, olives, wafers, fruit cake and fruit drink to fifteen members and three guests. Mrs. W. A. Atkinson, Mrs. W. B. Burnett and Miss Susie Atkinson.

Lida Smith Becomes Bride Of Harold Williams In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Lida Smith became the bride of Harold Lloyd Williams in a double ring ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church Saturday November 20 with Reverend John Solomon officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Smith of Cameron and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Williams of Eagle Lake, Texas.

The altar was banked with arrangements of white mums and greenery with tall tapers in twin candelabra in the foreground. At the organ, Ladis Marek played "Because", "I love You Truly", "Indian Love Call" and the wedding marches.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an exquisite gown of Chantilly lace over satin, an original design by Marie. It was created with a sculptured bodice, short spencer jacket fastened with small covered buttons and small stand up collar, glove fitting sleeves ending in petal points at the hands. The waltz length skirt was fashioned of petal shaped gores and revealed a pettiskirt of pleated nylon tulle. Her finger tip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a tiara of bridal jewels.

She carried a white orchid atop a white testament with depending white satin streamers.

Mrs. Charles Knopf of Ganado, Texas was the Matron of Honor with Miss Delores Spain of Wharton and Mrs. Vernon Gertson of Eagle Lake as bridesmaids.

Their waltz length gowns were of emerald green crystaline, created

As a going away ensemble the bride chose a navy blue suit with navy accessories enhanced by a pale boue hat and gloves, and blouse. She wore her wedding orchid as a corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Yoe High School and Western Union School of Telegraphy in Springfield, Mo. She has been employed as manager of the Wharton Western Union office for the past six years.

The groom graduated from the Eagle Lake High School and attended SWSTC in San Marcos. He is now rice farming in Eagle Lake.

Following their two week wedding trip to Old Mexico the couple will be at home in Eagle Lake.

FOOTBALL —

intercepted a Yoe pass on the Cameron 45 and romped to the Yoe 36 yard line. After several fruitful plays, Killeen fumbled, and Cameron took over on their own 19 yard line. One play later the third quarter ended.

The Yoemen began the fourth quarter with Michalka hitting end Albert Mondrik for a 60 yard pass and the Yoemen set up a touchdown drive once more, only to fumble it away again on the Killeen 16 yard line.

After a few plays Killeen fumbled on their 19 yard line and Cameron defensive star, Clifford Angell quickly covered up the ball for the Yoemen.

The Yoemen failed to move and on the Cameron 36 yard line. They moved to the Yoe 13 yard line with the Yoemen holding the mighty 'Roos and then took over on downs.

Cameron strived desperately for yardage, but Killeen held and a fourth down gamble deep in their own territory lacked only a few feet and Killeen took over on the Cameron 21 yard line.

Kirchoff again set up the touchdown on a 17 yard race with Reding adding the score. With 30 seconds left in the ball game, Reding ran over for the extra point and Killeen added one for good measure, 27-7.

Cited as outstanding for the Yoemen on defense were Absnaider and Angell. Michalka was also praised for his passing during the evening.

and the recommendation had been made that he cut it down and make a flume. I went out to talk to him about it one afternoon, and the flume had already been shaped and sodded, and he was hauling water to get the grass started."

Construction of the flume involved cutting down the overfall long by use of a bulldozer and then sodding it with bermuda grass and adding fertilizer.

Believing in a good rotation program, Mr. Polzer plants about one-third of his cropland in oats and in a strip approximately 80 feet clover each year.

He takes care to see that all crop residue is either mulched or grazed.

Another face of the conservation program on the Polzer farm -- which, by the way provides off-time recreation for Mr. Polzer and his five sons--is the fish management program, which has been carried out in his farm ponds.

Each of Mr. Polzer's five sons has been active in farming. All five belonged to the Cameron chapter of Future Farmers of America, and three of the four oldest boys expect to make farming their life's work.

One of the five boys was a winner of the Lone Star Farmer award.

The youngest boy, Steve, still in high school, was credited for the start of raising pigs on the Polzer farm. The boy took pigs as his project in FFA work, and the Polzer's now sell an average of around 40 Duroc-Jersey pigs yearly.

The surprising factor in Mr. Polzer's farming is that shortly after he got the farm, he set up a terrace system only to later realize that the system "wasn't getting the job done."

So he completely revamped his entire terrace system, correcting all of the deficiencies in the first set of terraces.

To receive his $25 award at a dinner of the Temple Kiwanis club on Dec. 7, Mr. Polzer, who proved that a farmer could take rough land and make a good living, has been recognized by the board of supervisors of the Central Texas Soil Conservation district in their selection for a tribute he well deserves.

still more grazing and offering opportunity to put up some good hay. About 20,000 bales of it, this year.

As the summer wears on, cotton and maize grow in the fourth tract. When the grain is combined and stored, and the cotton picked, into this field come the steers to put on more pounds grazing on the still green maize stubble. Volunteer grazing in the combined oats field offers more feed.

Now comes October again. The steers have been on the plantation a year. They average about 800 pounds -- 450 pounds of gain per head. Most of this was accomplished ed on oats -- yet a grain crop off the same oats is in the barn; on maize foliage -- yet a maize crop is in the barn; and on alfalfa and clover -- legumes that have likely put more into the soil than they took out.

Time now to put the finishing touches on the steers. In the grain storage building, a feed mill grinds maize and oats. This feed is automatically loaded into a combination feed mixer-distributor, equipped with an agitator in its big hopper. Here the grains are mixed, as in a great concrete mixer, with cotton-seed meal. No dollars go out of the pocket for the meal. Seed from the cotton crop is traded for it.

Half-split steel drums, mounted on legs, serve as feed troughs. An auger on the mixer-distributor, pulled by tractor, spouts the feed into the troughs for the steers, now in the feed lot.

On this ration and a filler of Johnson grass hay, steers on the farm in the past have averaged about two pounds of gain a day.

In late December, Angell starts topping out animals for market, and by January's end the steers have been marketed at the average weight of about 950 pounds, grading 50-50 good and choice, on the basis of past experience.

Once the steers are gone, the farm manager then turns his attention back to the new bunch of calves, which by this time are at work on the oats, hubam and alfalfa in the bottom.

Since Angell must pay tops for the kind of six-months-old calf he wants, at market time he is depending mainly on his gain alone for profit. For this reason the gain must be inexpensive, and this end is accomplished by putting most of the weight on the animals with grazing -- not hunt-and-pick grazing, either, but green forage high in protein and vitamin content.

At first, the plantation attempted to carry on the steer enterprise without feeding grain, but found that steers could not, on grazing alone, be boosted to the high grades which command top market prices. So, the home-grown grain feeding was added, and both Angell and owners Evans and Wortham now believe they've "hit on a good thing."

Santa Gertrudis, paper-shelled pecans, quarter horses and cotton on the halves

While steers are the bread and butter at Randle Lake plantation, producing beef for market is by no means the only enterprise carried on

The old plantation was farmed to cotton for many years and the families of field hands who once toiled in the bottom are still welcome members of the farm "staff." Eight families of workers -- not counting Ozell Angell's -- live on the place under conditions which their fathers probably never dreamed of.

Each spring the head of every family is given 20 acres of good bottomland to raise cotton on the halves. This is done mainly to encourage them to stick around, which they certainly do. And under the guidance of Angell, the workers employ scientific cotton production methods to produce yields which they likely haven't seen since that Little River Bottom was first plowed many, many years ago. The cotton is planted all in one block and all hands work it as a unit, getting their share at the end of the crop year. This furnishes the families with work when labor requirements on the farm might otherwise sometimes find them with nothing to do. For the place is equipped with a great line-up of labor saving devices.

But it is nice to have these hands around, for instance, when the great spread of paper-shelled pecan trees owned by the plantation along the river are ready to be threshed.

These workers also come in handy in preparing for such events as the recent cattle and horse sale held by owners Evans and Wortham. Two years ago, the ranch acquired some Santa Gertrudis breeding stock and set out to develop a herd. Early in November of this year the breeders had progressed to the point that they offered 14 males and 12 females at auction, held in a new barn built on the farm for the purpose. Evans and Wortham are in the Santa Gertrudis breeding business to stay and plan the auction as an annual event. The farm also breeds quarter horses and offered 14 head along with the cattle at the recent auction.

The auction barn, though adequate and convenient, is not swanky, and this no doubt reflects the influence of Manager Angell, a man who dislikes to spend money "for show." The other improvements on the place -- and many have been built since the old plantation was purchased -- show the same influence, with the emphasis on usefulness.

Angell will say openly that he took the job of managing the plantation on one condition -- that he could operate it as a practical unit. The owners, Evans and Wortham, replied that they wanted it no other way, and so things have been.

In spite of a fairly large labor supply on the farm, Angell never hesitates to take advantage of a labor saving idea which might save a few man hours. At present, with his pecans at maturity, he has one man at work in the pecan orchard rigging up and tending to what might be called "explosive scare crows."

The "scarecrow" is a long, slow burning rope fuse, to which are attached firecrackers. The firecrackers are spaced along the fuse at the desired interval and hung in a pecan tree, with the fuse burning. Every few minutes -- depending on how far apart the charges are spaced -- the fuse touches off a firecracker. Any small boys who happen to be picking up a few pecans on the wrong side of the fence will think somebody has taken after them with a 12-gauge shotgun.

But small boys are not the problem. Angell is more interested in crows, which as any pecan grower knows can harvest an awful lot of paper shelled pecans. (Many more, in fact, than a schoolhouse full of small boys). The firecracker idea now also being used on some farms and ranches to discourage deer from eating crops at night -- has done a fair job of discouraging Mr. Crow, which is not an easy thing to do.

The development of the old plantation makes an interesting and valuable show for neighboring farmers. The work has been an eye-opening demonstration for all of Milam County, in everything from fencing and land clearing down to the slick little set of sheds and fences built on the place to house the steers fed out by Angell's sons.

Herman Jahnke is spending a couple of days in Brenham where he is a guests of his four sisters and one brother.
